

STORYBOARDING

Illustrate in detail the user and the context in which they use your product. This allows you to collect more details on who they are, who are with them, where they are, the expressions on their faces, how they handle the product.

